Haringey Council to cull 22 per cent of whole workforce in a bid to save £50m
– but union chiefs bite back at the huge cuts...

By Lucy Purdy

MORE than 1,000 members of staff at Haringey Council are set to lose their jobs in a huge cull designed to save the cash-strapped authority millions.

About 22 per cent of the 4,500-strong workforce will find themselves out of work as council chiefs scramble to save more than £50million from their budget in the next year alone. Though the plan is in early stages, every department is expected to come under fire and workers are already steeling themselves for the cuts after receiving letters warning them of the plan.

Council leader Claire Kober said: "The depth and speed of the government's public sector spending cuts have put local councils under immense pressure to make urgent savings, and Haringey is no exception.

"It is not possible to remove upwards of £50m from our budget without significant job losses. We have spoken to hundreds of staff in recent weeks, and many have put forward their own ideas for changes to terms and conditions as a means of minimising job losses.

"We will, wherever possible, make cuts by first deleting vacant posts, but further job losses are unfortunately unavoidable. No decisions have been taken beyond opening the discussion with staff and trade unions."

But the proposal met with widespread condemnation from union representatives in Haringey. Keith Flett, chairman of Haringey Trades Council, told the Advertiser: "There are ways of doing these things and there are ways of not doing them. This looks like the worst possible way of starting, if indeed they need to be done in the first place.

"We are talking about more than 20 per cent of the workforce which, as anyone involved in the business would know, is not sustainable without the whole organisation seizing up and stopping.

"It is a big concern of mine that cost-cutting and job reductions are very specific skills which councillors and senior officers may have no experience of.

"We will seek to help them find better ways of doing this. But does it really need to be done at all? It would be better to join the unions and the community in asking the government for more money."

Jenny Sutton, branch secretary of the University And College Union at the College of Haringey, Enfield And North East London, said 51 "at risk of redundancy" letters had been sent to staff at Haringey's Professional Development Centre, including specialist teachers who give support to children with disabilities and those for whom English is a second language. She added: "Since the election, Haringey Council has made £18m of cuts in care and social services, housing, play schemes and youth services and further cuts of £50m are planned. Tottenham has the highest unemployment in London, yet our community is under attack from a government of millionaires determined to privatise public services and force the poor into ghettos."

Final resting places will go up for grabs to the highest bidder

Cabinet agrees to lease crematorium and cemeteries to outside contractor

By Lucy Purdy

THE day-to-day running of Haringey's cemeteries and crematorium could be taken over by a private company after councillors controversially agreed to lease them to an outside contractor.

The cabinet agreed that Tottenham Cemetery, in White Hart Lane, Wood Green Cemetery, in Wolves Lane, and Enfield Crematorium, in Great Cambridge Road, Enfield, could all be leased to a specialist operator.

It also agreed that officers should seek planning permission to create new burial space at Enfield Crematorium.

Other options for the sites were considered by the cabinet, including selling

On the market: Wood Green Cemetery

one or all of the sites.

But a lease-based agreement would give the council the option of "building in" controls, such as opening hours and access to facilities, safety and security as well as what happens to grave space in the future, a spokesman said.

Council money is becoming increasingly tight as the authority struggles to make savings of as much as £60million next year alone. This, and the fact the government is reducing the ability of local councils to borrow money, will restrict Haringey's ability to invest in the sites any longer, members heard.

The options set out in a report to the cabinet would cost between £6.6m and £13.4m.

Councillor Dilek Dogus, cabinet member for adult and community services, said: "We understand the concerns of the bereaved and their families, but with the cuts being imposed on the council, we think that private sector funding is the most sensible option for us, so that the necessary work can be carried out at the sites."

"Enfield Crematorium needs a minimum capital investment of £6.6m to upgrade equipment so that it complies with new emission standards and to provide new burial spaces."

"We expect that this decision will mean that families and mourners will be offered just as good a service. It's also important for people to remember that the sites will be leased – not sold."

People living near Spurs face eviction

HARINGEY Council has agreed "in principle" to a scheme which means people living near the proposed new Spurs stadium could be forced from their homes.

Buildings near the planned new stadium could be the subject of compulsory purchase orders after a report was approved by the council's cabinet last week, outlining plans to enable the club to buy land and property in the area. While Spurs already own 85 per cent of the land surrounding the existing White Hart Lane stadium, a CPO would enable the club to buy other land deemed essential in allowing the multi-million pound scheme to go ahead.

Council leader Claire Kober said: "Haringey has worked hard to pull this report together swiftly because we know that a CPO would allow Spurs' plans, which have the full backing of the council, to progress unhindered. "The council has acted in the interests of the club and is committed to seeing work on the project continue. We look forward to work starting on site and to welcoming Spurs' 56,000 capacity state-of-the-art stadium to Tottenham."

Compulsory purchase orders will only be considered as a "last resort" when all negotiations have failed.

Gun crime unit may take the bullet despite outcry

Impact: Part of Trident's campaign to stop girls stashing guns

By Lucy Purdy

A METROPOLITAN Police unit which investigates gun crime in Haringey's black communities could be disbanded to save money.

Operation Trident, which was launched after "execution-style" killings in 1998, faces the axe as the force tries to save money in the wake of the government's Comprehensive Spending Review.

Though a final decision has yet to be made, a spokesman for the force admitted no department was "sacrosanct".

Tottenham MP David Lammy said scrapping Trident would be an "extraordinary decision". He told the Advertiser: "This is speculation at the moment but I would be upset at the thought of Trident being dismantled."

"Right across London people have been very concerned about gun crime and in Haringey we have seen a reduction in gun and knife crime. Most of that has been led by intelligence at Trident. If they decide to get rid of Trident, there would be the potential of an escalation of violent crime in London.

"I would want to know exactly what would replace it and I'm very concerned we would see an escalation in crime in places like Haringey. The only way we can deal with this type of crime is to have intelligence - understanding what is happening on the streets, understanding gang activity and knowing where these people are and going after them."

Trident has investigated 12 murders and 224 shooting incidents in the past year and is formed of 350 investigative officers and 98 support staff. Police chiefs wanted to improve relations with black people in London who had been mistrustful of the police and were reluctant to pass on information.

Last year, Trident organised a hard-hitting campaign warning girls of the dangers of stashing guns for their boyfriends. Trident officers also investigated the case of Aron

Thomas, who fired a handgun indiscriminately into crowds of people in Wood Green in February, and the murders of Joseph Hylton and Marcin Bilaszewski, youngsters from Haringey who were killed within the space of a weekend in May.

A Met spokesman said: "We, like the rest of the public sector, are facing challenging times, but we live in the real world and continue to reduce costs as much as we can. We don't yet know the full impact the budget cuts will have on the Met and we are unlikely to know our final budget for several months."

"It has been made clear that no organisational structures are sacrosanct. Trident Operational Command Unit remains committed to working with communities to prevent and investigate shootings and is reviewing all options on how it can deliver a better service to Londoners at a time of reducing budgets. However, no decisions have been made."

Watch schemes to lose their manager

A LYNCHPIN at the centre of the Neighbourhood Watch scheme in Haringey will be cut in the latest swathe of cuts sweeping the country.

The link manager role in the borough-wide scheme is to be slashed next year after a Haringey Police spokeswoman said they could no longer afford to keep the post. Pauline Syddell who has been in the role for several years will lose her job in March.

Rosemary Johnson (pictured), chairwoman of the Bruce Grove Neighbourhood Watch scheme, told the Advertiser the decision was "shortsighted". She said: "Pauline has been doing a good job and we need her. She works across the whole borough, organising meetings and sending emails around. We are the eyes and ears of the police and notice what's happening on the streets. We then negotiate with the police and council for the way ahead."

"If our service is no longer effective, things are going to go back to how they were before; drunkenness, fly-tipping, things like that."

But Superintendent Chris Barclay, of Haringey Police, said it was "time to move forward".

"Funding for this post has been removed, meaning the post comes to an end at the end of the current financial year," he said.

"Pauline has done a great job, however due to the financial situation it's time to move forward and this is the way forward. Each Neighbourhood Watch will have a named person from their local Safer Neighbourhood Team responsible for the watch and each watch will have its own meetings to discuss ways to resolve local issues. The watches will deal with officers who have good local knowledge."

"We will continue to provide a good service. It will look slightly different, but it will still be a good service."

Meeting to defend Whittington future

A PUBLIC meeting will be held on November 30 to discuss the future of The Whittington Hospital.

Chairman Joe Liddane and governors will meet with members of the public from 6-8pm at the London Voluntary Resource Centre, in Holloway Road, to discuss the hospital's future as it aims for foundation trust status.

The government's recent white paper declared that all NHS Trusts must achieve foundation status by 2013/14, meaning they will have more independence from the government and health authorities.

A spokesman said: "It is essential that we hear the views of local people as we plan the future of The Whittington and its services during this time of change."

Gun found at drug home

A 23-YEAR-OLD man has been charged after police raided a cannabis factory in Wood Green and uncovered a pistol.

Officers found the cannabis farm in an attic in Sylvan Avenue as well as a loaded Berretta firearm with rounds of ammunition. The man, from Wood Green, has been charged with possession of a firearm, possession of ammunition and the production of cannabis.

Cinema fan reels us in to put golden days of glamour and glitz in the picture again

FROM cinemas in small converted shops to the luxurious super-cinemas of the 1930s heyday, Haringey has had its fair share of picture houses over the years.

Now writer and cinema enthusiast Jeremy Buck, from Pelham Road, Wood Green, has poured two years of painstaking research into a new book which charts the “fascinating histories” and subsequent decline of Haringey’s cinemas.

Published by the Hornsey Historical Society, Cinemas Of Haringey covers more than 40 buildings including their grand openings and what became of them after the last reel was shown.

Mr Buck said: “To me, these cinemas conjure up a forgotten age of glitz and glamour when people went to the cinema to see their favourite film stars. These buildings were often very well-decorated and were designed to transport you to a sort of fantasy world. Back in the 1930s and 40s, going to the cinema seemed to be very much a part of people’s lives. They used to go at least once or maybe even twice or three times a week.

“You didn’t have to dress up and it was fairly cheap to see a film whereas the theatre was relatively expensive. People didn’t have televisions in those days and all your friends would be there too – it was a friendly, sociable thing to do.”

Together with pages and pages of fascinating illustrations, many of which have never been published before, the book also includes memories of residents who recall their regular trips to the “pictures”.

HARINGEY has three listed cinema buildings within its borders – the Gaumont Palace in Wood Green, the Odeon at Muswell Hill and the Palace in Tottenham, with just the Odeon still open as a cinema today. But the borough has also been home to scores of other cinemas which, while not as glamorous or as widely-known, provided people with hours of cheap entertainment.

Mr Buck, who is also a member of the Cinema Theatre Association, used the archive at Bruce Castle Museum as well as the British Library Newspapers archive in Colindale to research his book. He discovered interesting snippets of information along the way, such as the fact that there was a roller-skating rink attached to the Electro-scope cinema in Station Road, Wood Green.

But the craze for roller-skating quickly died out, leading to the closure of both the rink and the cinema just a year after opening. It re-opened as Palais de Luxe in November 1913, advertising itself as “the finest and most up-to-date picture house in the district” before undergoing another transformation in 1938 to become The Rex, with a striking art deco frontage and opening with the appropriately-titled film Back In Circulation, starring Joan Blondell.

“There were bigger programmes in those days,” said Mr Buck. “They would often show two shortish films and maybe a cartoon and then there would be an interval. Then a longer film which was usually American, and it would all be done on a continuous performance, so you could walk in halfway through, unlike today when there are set performance times.

“People often had to wait outside because the films were so popular and there were armies of usherettes to show people to their seats. Prices were just a few pence originally and then they gradually crept up.”

The first films to be shown were British before American “movies” started making their way across the Atlantic and gradually began to dominate the market. There was a huge resurgence in cinema-going in 1929 when silent movies – ie images usually accompanied only by a piano or

Short run: Muswell Hill Electric shut in 1938

Wurlitzer organ – were replaced by “talking pictures” or “talkies”, leading to a boom in bigger cinemas being built.

The first cinema in Haringey was the 500-seater Cinematica in Finsbury Park, which opened in October 1909, richly decorated with elaborate plasterwork and large lamps, thought to have been modelled on travelling fairground film shows of the time.

Alan Clark, who used to visit the Coliseum in Salisbury Promenade, Haringay, shared his memories in the book. He said: “I probably first visited in 1947, aged 11 or 12. I remember a fat gentleman standing outside and cajoling children to see the show, which wouldn’t be allowed today. It was a duty of the usherettes to ensure seats were vacated at the end of the programme – often a source of contention such as ‘You’ve seen it – get out!’ ‘No I haven’t. I’ve just come in!’”

“There were a couple of downsides – shouts, whistles and boos when the film broke – usually at least once per performance.”

□ Cinemas Of Haringey is available from Hornsey Historical Society by calling 020 8348 8429 on Thursdays and Fridays from 10am–2pm or on Saturday from 10am–4pm, priced £9.99 plus £1.40 postage and packaging.

Gollum actor Andy turns on 'precious' Christmas lights

LORD Of The Rings star Andy Serkis, who played Gollum in the blockbuster trilogy, will switch on Highgate Christmas lights on Friday.

The award-winning actor, who also starred in Burke and Hare and King Kong and who is set to appear in Stephen Spielberg's The Adventures of Tin Tin and Peter Jackson's The Hobbit, will do the honours at 4.30pm at the corner of Highgate High Street and Pond Square.

The lights are funded by Haringey Council and a "generous contribution" from Highgate Traders' Association.

Councillor Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for neighbourhoods, said: "Highgate's Christmas lights are always beautiful and give the village an extra special feel - it's very magical.

"We were struggling to finance Christmas lights this year and asked traders to help out. Traders in Highgate have done just that and I hope residents and visitors to the village enjoy them and find time to pop in to the local shops too."

Chris Underhill, of Prickett and Ellis Underhill Estate Agents and Highgate Traders' Association, said: "All credit to the council for sticking with us in these tough times.

"We are happy to cough up towards the costs to help keep the lights.

"I like Christmas and seeing the faces of the children walking through the village when the lights are on makes me grin like a kid.

"The village looks lovely and hopefully people

Family's anguish as conspirator in Dad killing gets life term

Killed:
Ahmet Paytak

By Christine Fashugba

A MAN from Finsbury Park must spend at least 30 years behind bars after being convicted of his part in the murder of a shopkeeper in Holloway.

Relatives of 50-year-old Ahmet Paytak have spoken of their anguish as 31-year-old Michael James was handed a life sentence last week. James, of Ursula Mews, was also convicted of the attempted murder of Mr Paytak's son, 21-year-old Husyein Paytak.

Mr Paytak, a married father of three, was in a shop with his son in March last year when a hail of bullets was fired at them. Mr Paytak died at the scene while his son narrowly escaped with his life after suffering serious leg injuries.

James drove a stolen motorcycle to and away from the murder scene while his pillion passenger is thought to have actually carried out the shooting. The attack is believed to have been part of a Turkish gang feud with the Paytaks targeted in a case of mistaken identity.

Police said the pair were "entirely innocent victims" caught up in a "violent feud".

Detective Inspector Joe Daly, of the Homicide And Serious Crime Command, said: "Mr Paytak's death was a tragic and senseless loss of life which has devastated a family.

"We are committed to continuing our efforts to bring other suspects involved in this horrific crime to justice."

In a family statement Mr Paytak's daughter, Elif Paytak, said: "Since Dad has passed away we have not been the same.

"Time has not made it any easier – in fact it is getting harder to come to terms with as time goes by and the truth of him not being around becomes more and more obvious.

"Every day we wish this was all a nightmare and we would wake up with our dad next to us."

A reward of £20,000 is still on offer for information about what happened. Anyone with information should call the incident room on 020 8345 3734.

Happier times: Ahmet at the wedding of his daughter, Elif, with the family

From a pub into another world...

DRINKERS at the Boogaloo in Highgate who step out for a fag might be under the misapprehension they've had one too many.

As if stepping through a magical wardrobe, a fairytale Narnia is revealed at the end of the courtyard featuring strange animals, a table laden with food, items of clothing and the odd top hat!

"I wanted to give the impression of someone having just left a room - what happens when humans leave and the world just stops," said its creator Gillian O'Brien. "Decay takes over, as would animals, and the result is rather beautiful."

"I also hope it provokes debate such as, 'What has happened here? Why is that top hat there?'"

Extending the Finchley artist's vision further, in an unexpected way, the installation has recently been enjoyed by rather more proactive visitors. "We've had a few foxes come for a feast," said Gillian, laughing. "They loved the pheasant that was here, ripping it to shreds, while my badger has lost his nose! I just love the fact of the lights going off and this whole other world starting up - a community of animals."

ANNE WARE SANDERSON

Gillian has been asked by the Boogaloo to create four installations - "shop windows" as she calls them - throughout the year to mark the different seasons. She is also interested in hearing from other artists who wish to make a contribution. For more details, call 020 8340 2928.

Out and about

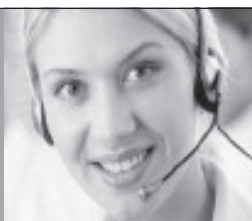

● A "VERY special" mystery guest takes to the stage Downstairs at the King's Head on Saturday. No clues as yet but he/she had better be good for punters to splash out on an act of faith. But never fear, the mysterious one will be more than adequately supported by Steve Nallon, Toby Adams, Kevin Dewsbury and Wade McElwain. Doors open at 8pm and admission is £10 (£7 concs). Call the Crouch End venue on 020 8340 1028.

● A NEW twist on an old tale is promised by Barking Dog Theatre on Saturday. Sleeping Beauty Meets The Noisy Prince at Lauderdale House in Highgate Hill, Highgate, in a show suitable for ages three to eight. A princess is cursed and falls asleep for 100 years while a dim-witted prince tries to save her. Shows at 10am and 11.30am and tickets cost £4.50 (£3 concs). Call the box office on 020 8348 8716.

● THE lives of a group of British officers on the front line will be portrayed Upstairs at the Gatehouse. Journey's End by RC Sherriff is at the Highgate Village venue from Thursday to Sunday with performances at 8pm and a Sunday matinee at 4pm. Tickets cost £12 (£10 concs). For more details call the box office on 020 8340 3488.

Restaurant News

The Castle, 452 Finchley Road, Golders Green. 020 8455 3501

"THE Pub That Rocks" is the legend underneath The Castle's name.

It's a funky phrase but one that actually does this bastion of live music a disservice.

For one, it is easily 100 chart positions above the lousy film The Boat That Rocks which inspired this phrase. Secondly, it's not just a pub but a fine eatery as well, which serves food all day as well as acclaimed roasts on Sundays.

During the past year, owner Denis Cook has worked hard to raise standards and the results can be seen from the moment you walk in the door, with one of the most eye-catching decors for music lovers in north-west London – full of vintage posters, sofas with Beatles prints and a lifetime of memorabilia.

"I would like The Castle to be recognised as a good music venue where locals and other Londoners come and have some good nights where they can really enjoy themselves," said Denis.

A quick scan of the programme reveals an enticing mix of old stars – Neil Innes, Chas Hodges, John Otway and Maggie Bell – alongside tribute bands and local groups, who take over the back room most Thursdays to Sundays. They are brought together by a man who knows the odd note or two about the music business: Denis has not only DJ'd in London since the 1960s but inspired his famous nephew, Norman, proudly showing me a quote from Fat Boy Slim himself in which he says Denis was his role model.

December is looking like a busy month for Cook Snr, including disco funk from Earth, Wind For Hire every Friday, various Christmas parties, a performance from The Overtures on December 3 and local band The Dave Stark Five on December 5.

Denis wants to hear from any local groups interested in playing at The Castle. Call the above number or go to www.thecastlefinchleyroad.com.

● Food is served from Mondays to Fridays, noon to 3pm and 6pm to 9pm; Thursdays to Saturdays, 9pm till late; Sundays, from noon onwards.

Enigma that almost has it, by George

The American (15)

Dir: Anton Corbijn
Starring: George Clooney, Thekla Reuten, Violante Placido

FOR two thirds of this serious, elliptical film I thought we were in the company of a masterpiece.

A deceptively gentle opening is followed by a moment of surprising violence, causing the George Clooney character, a professional killer, to hide out in a remote Italian village.

We know nothing about him – his nationality is the only thing we're sure of – while the reasons people want him dead are equally opaque. A priest strikes up a form of friendship with the taciturn, solitary American whose only other companion is a prostitute called Clara he regularly has sex with, and his days are filled with creating a specially ordered rifle for a beautiful female colleague.

Dialogue is stripped to the bone to make every utterance feel important while the pauses are filled with intrigue as we try to penetrate the narrative fog of this enigma.

As such it displays very European sensibility, as if Jason Bourne found himself in Antonioni's The Passenger, while Anton Corbijn's direction and George Clooney – playing against type – are masterful and both are backed up by an artillery of attractive, continental talent.

But it is let down by the denouement and too many narrative threads are left to twist in the wind.

Nothing wrong in ambivalence, of course, but the final third is not intelligent or rewarding enough to equal the work that we, as viewers, have invested in a subtle piece of film-making which just runs out of gas, while the Clooney character is ultimately too nebulous for us to care deeply about what happens to him.

Based on a book by Martin Booth, A Very Private Gentleman, a few more rewrites could well have made this the modern classic which the hype has led us to believe this is, and fully justified that fourth or even fifth star.

by Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing...

Harry Potter And The Deathly Hallows – Part One (12A)

More of an exercise in treading water before the dramatic splash of part two than a vintage Potter in its own right. Darker and away from Hogwarts, this still has enough action to provide an entertaining two-and-a-half hours.

Another Year (12A)

Mike Leigh returns to form with this compassionate, quietly devastating slice of London life. We follow couple, Gerri and Tom, who provide a form of refuge for lonely friends and family members in north London.

Due Date (15)

Odd couple road trip made by the funny man who brought us The Hangover. Borrowing heavily from '80s comedy classics, it features Robert Downey Jr and Zach Galifianakis driving from Atlantic City to LA with far-fetched yet funny results.

Engaging, witty portrait of middle-aged lesbian parents in California played by Julianne Moore and Annette Bening whose cosy, existence is shaken when their two teenage daughters go in search of their biological father.

Crouch End, Hornsey, Tottenham & Wood Green

Glorious Tottenham

Apart from being home to a top premier league football team, Tottenham 'the area' has so much to offer property-wise. In fact it is steeped in local history with many of the area's period properties reflecting this.

On Monday I was called out to value a gorgeous Grade II listed cottage in a beautiful little spot tucked away behind Bruce Castle Park (Tottenham is full of these little gems)... the sun was shining and as driving back to the office I caught sight of 'Bruce Castle' sitting proudly at the entrance to Bruce Castle Park. I was so taken by its grandeur and beauty I just had to pull over and take this photo:

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search via a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

HARRY EYEING QUALIFICATION

By Lee Husson

SPURS boss Harry Redknapp has called for his side to finish the job tonight and seal qualification to the last 16 of the Champions League with a victory over Werder Bremen at White Hart Lane.

Tottenham have two matches remaining in Group A, but need just one victory to secure their passage to the knockout stage after going top with a famous 3-1 win over Inter Milan.

The manager wants his side to seal qualification with a game to spare, and not have to go to FC Twente next month needing a win while in the middle of a tricky run of fixtures in the Premier League.

Spurs are level on seven points with Inter but have the edge due to their head-to-head record, while Twente have five points and Bremen just two.

The German side also have severe injury problems, with Claudio Pizarro, Clemens Fritz, Naldo, Sebastian Boenisch and Tim Borowski all ruled out.

However, Bremen need to win, and Redknapp is expecting a difficult game.

"The group is still wide open. We need a result on Wednesday," he said.

"You don't want to be going into the last game away to Twente needing to win the game to get through the group. We need to put it to bed if we can.

"We go to Birmingham, and have Liverpool coming up, so there are some big games.

"Bremen are not a bad side, they're dangerous opposition. To get out of the group would be a good achievement."

Meanwhile Jermain Defoe insists that he never doubted Spurs' ability to seal their amazing 3-2 win at Arsenal on Saturday.

The Gunners were 2-0 up cruising at the Emirates, before Spurs produced a second-half fightback to seal their first win at the home of their bitter rivals for 17 years.

"Second half, I think they eased off a little bit," said the half-time substitute.

"Sometimes it's difficult when you go 2-0 up. People think you just go on and you win the game quite comfortably.

"But sometimes you take your foot off the gas. I think they did that and when we got the goal back I knew we'd win the game."

Get it done: Redknapp is eager for his side to seal their passage to the next round tonight

Skolars squad taking shape

LONDON SKOLARS head coach Joe Mbu continues to build his squad ahead of the 2011 campaign as the Co-Operative Championship One outfit announced the re-signing of six players this week.

Steve Ball, Aaron Small, Jaroslaw Obuchowski, Smokie Junior, Liam Prescott and Cariern Clement-Pascall have all committed their futures to the club, following on from Matt Thomas, Tom Williams, Olu Iwenofu and Olly Bloom – who all put pen to paper last week – as well as new arrival from Hunslet Hawks Jason Hart.

"These guys all showed promise last season. I'm really looking forward to working with them to develop that promise," Mbu said.

Ball, 21, started his playing career with the junior side, before a spell with Quins RL academy. The loose forward made his debut at the start of the year and quickly earned his position as a regular in the first team, missing just two games all season and was awarded Skolars' player of the year.

Small, 20, made one appearance for the first team last season, but the Middlesex University student was included in the England Colleges representative squad.

Second rower Obuchowski, 21, made his senior debut last year and has now made 16 appearances, while Junior, 21, has made similar progress, scoring two tries on the wing last season.

Prescott, 22, re-signs for the club after a strong first season, with Clement-Pascall, 20, who joined the Skolars midway through the last campaign, adding depth and pace to the second row.
